Need help with just a portion of your event? We do that too.

Many successful events experience challenges or have areas that could benefit from an expert approach.

Communications is critical to the success of any event. Using experienced operators and professional radio equipment, we can design, manage and operate an appropriate communications system to help your event run more efficiently.

Tired of difficult vendor installations with limited time frames, resulting in frazzled volunteers? Our years of street fair and trade show experience will help facilitate a smooth event set-up.

Have you ever faced the challenges of unreliable or improperly planned power? Let us design and implement an electrical distribution system that will ensure maximum dependability with the utmost safety.

Poor traffic control, line management and crowd control can bring an event to a halt. Our public event experience as well as our emergency management expertise is the answer.

You may want to increase the amount of recyclable material diverted from your event, or perhaps you cannot get enough volunteers. Let our Resource Recovery team design and staff a plan that works for you.

From large scale municipal fireworks displays and maritime events to street festivals and private events, EPS brings the knowledge and experience essential to achieving a safe, successful event.
